

Child's Sack Back Windsor Arm Chair

Medium

Maple, tulip poplar, and ash

Description

Seven turned and tapered spindles extend from the seat through the arm piece to the bow back. Two more spindles support each arm where the back joins the arm piece, as does a baluster turned post under the flat hand rests. The seat, which has been shaped, sits on four baluster turned legs which are strengthened by two bulbous turned side stretchers connected by a bulbous turned medial stretcher to form an "H" shaped assembly. Old red paint covers an earlier mustard color finish.
