Description

A young child's simple dress or gown, constructed with a shallow square neckline, separate flared short sleeves, and a flaring skirt. An additional triangular fabric panel was sewn to the proper right side of the skirt to piece out the full flare of the skirt. Simple off-white cotton lace trims the neckline and sleeve edges. The fabric itself is a printed cotton, in an alternating pattern of dotted stripes in brown and red with bands depicting a Union Army soldier holding an American flag, standing above a banner reading "UNION FOREVER," with two soldiers manning a cannon.
