

Wax Cross

Medium

Painted wood, wax, glass, wire

Description

A large cross constructed of squared pine, painted white, and mounted on a simple square base of white painted pine. The entire wood surface of both cross and base is covered with thin sheets of white wax overlaid with elaborate white wax flowers, leaves, vines, and curling tendrils. Many of the larger wax leaves and flower petals have delicate lines and textures molded into their surfaces. The base is glued to a circular turned wood base, painted black, and covered with a large colorless glass dome which fits into a narrow groove cut along the edge of the black base.
