Lightweight woven barred cotton gauze in a printed pattern, glazed brown cotton

Description

A young woman's day dress of a grid woven lightweight cotton voile in a pattern of cloudlike white ovoids on a maroon ground. The gown is constructed as one piece, with a front closure fastening with flattened steel hooks and eyes, a high round neck, and long shaped sleeves ending with narrow ruffles and a hook and thread loop closure. The gown's skirt is gathered to the waistband with cartridge pleating and includes a wide medial horizontal tuck at knee height. The gown's bodice is lined with brown cotton and includes channels with original whalebone. The skirt is unlined save for a wide 8" hem facing of lightweight glazed brown cotton. The gown also includes a small pocket at the proper right hip.
