Description

View of a large two story, gambrel-roofed structure with a one-story section to its left that extended to the rear with a lean-to addition. The main block has a three bay facade, as does the lower section. Chimneys are located against the gable end of the main block, and against the gable end of what is apparently a kitchen dependency due to the presence of a brick oven extending from the rear of a large fireplace. A small white-painted structure stands in the yard to the left of the main building, and a well house appears in the distance. The structure is painted white, as is a picket fence along the roadway in the foreground. A couple is walking toward the building from the left, while a carriage drawn by a single horse is heading from right to left in the roadway which forms the foreground. Bare trees surround the building, while others are depicted in the background under a partly cloudy sky.
