Description

View of a two story stone house with a hipped roof, three chimneys, and seven windows on the elevation facing the vantage point. The shutters on one of the first floor windows are closed. There is a small columned porch on the right hand entrance, and a large columned porch to the left that faces a river. Two buildings are seen in the middle distance on the river bank. Mountains form the far distance on both sides of the river, which is filled with watercraft, including a steamboat. Trees grow along the left and right edges of the grassy foreground, and a male figure wearing a top hat appears in the extreme right margin.
